

Hello All,

We are excited to break some news in the upcoming weeks about new services beyond consulting to help support our clients. We have witnessed your struggles and are working hard to respond in a manner that meets your needs. Keep an eye out for more announcements as we release these new services.

Project Management

One of our newest services that we have already begun offering is Project Management! With the addition of James Sheehy, VP of Business Development, to our team, we are now able to offer the service of Project Management. We know that many of you have capital projects going on, restructuring, breaking new grounds, and/or expansion. We are excited to have a Project Management professional on our team with several years experience in the construction side of this space. Additionally, James has taught both construction costing and construction project productivity at the university level. He incorporates this skillset and his LEAN Six Sigma black belt certification training into all of his work.

Whether your project is underway or you are planning for the future, we can help. James has already begun this work with some of our current clients and we can't wait to expand our reach to assist more health centers in this area of need.

NACHC Operations Training

Our very own Shannon Nielson will be an instructor at the PAHCO Virtual Training. Shannon has had the pleasure of being an instructor for several years now on the NACHC team. For all the details on this virtual training: CLICK HERE

Data Strategy Work

Shannon Nielson recently visited the Northland Health Center as part of an onsite session in her data strategy work package. The work started with remote services to gather information, meet with the team, and prep for the onsite work. The onsite is then followed with recurring check-ins and finally a finalized data strategy specifically created for Northland Health Center. See the picture above of Shannon with the Northland team!

Stay Healthy,
